ARTHUR S. BAKER, OF BROOKLYN, SHOOTS

HIMSELF AT WILKESBARRE, PENN.

HE HAD REEN THERE TEN DAYS, UNDER AN ASSUMED NAME, AND FEARED ARREST FOR PASSING WORTHLESS CHECKS-HIS MIND

BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN AFFECTED.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] Wilkesbarre, Penn., May 14 .- Arthur St. Clair Baker, of No. 314 Jefferson-ave., Brooklyn, committed suicide here this evening at 6 o'clock, in the court-house yard, by shooting himself. bullets entered the left breast immediately above the heart, and he died five minutes afterward. Baker, who was apparently about twenty years old, came to this city on Friday, May 5, and registered at the Luzerne House as Clarence Coleman, of Montreal. He seemed to have plenty of funds, and spent money freely. When his supply of cash gave out he sold a quantity of woman's jewelry to the young men around town, at any price he could get. Last Thursday he gave the proprietor of the Luzerne House a check for $10 on the Anthracite Savings Bank of this city, upon which check payment was refused. Since then he had given various persons checks on the same bank, all of which proved worthless. Upon being confronted with the protested checks, Baker crediting him with $170 62. It was learned that upon his arrival here he had deposited a check on the Union Trust Company, of New-York City, for that amount, which was found later to be a forgery. It seems he took his life on learning sent by the Chief of Police to the young man's address in Brooklyn and answer was received as Arthur S. Baker left home May 5, probably temporarily insane. Please forward body to my address. Answer at once. CHARLES BAKER, No. 314 Jefferson-ave.

Young Baker had been representing himself as a travelling salesman for the drygoods house of Dunham, Buckley & Co., of New-York City. Fifteen minutes prior to the shooting he was seen in the company of several young men who were teasing him about being arrested. This seemed to jar his feelings, in a measure, and he walked away. Upon entering the courthouse yard he turned around and, seeing an officer behind him, ended his life. Among his effects were found several worthless checks and a telegram from his home informing him of his mother's death, and asking him to come home immediately. There was also found a cadet uniform with the initials "A. B." on the cap. Young Baker was well dressed, and made a favorable impression on all with whom he came in contact. His body will be forwarded to Brooklyn to-morrow.

Charles Baker, the father of Arthur S. Baker, was seen by a Tribune reporter last night, at his home, No. 314 Jefferson-ave., Brooklyn, and said: "My son left home on May 5, without leaving word as to where he was going, and we have heard nothing about him since until this evening, when we received a telegram from the Wilksbarre police, saying that he had committed the Wilksbarre police, saying that he had committed suicide. He is fifteen years and one month old today, and for some time his actions have been strange. Dr. Sanford, the family physician, said to the reporter: "I have attended Arthur Baker since he was a lit ie boy. The trouble with his mind was that his lody had grown too first. Although only afteen years old, he was five let exceen inclus high and remarkable strange actions in the last few months. He was a member of the Marcy Avenue Baptist Church."

Mr. Baker is engaged in business in this city.

Cos Cob, Conn., May 14 (Special).-Captain John Oscar C. Aiken, of Stamford, was drowned here at 10:20 o'clock to-night. The captain, with Fergus Baker, one of the deck hands: John I. Loose, of the tug Julia; George Gomperts and Thomas McDonough, employed on the steam dredger A. J. Baisley, had been drinking and having a merry time on board the Aiken. A splash was suddenly heard in the water and at the same time Captain Hunter disappeared, so his companions say. Some men in the vicinity heard the companions say. Some men in the vicinity heard the splash and ran to the spot, but the Captain had disappeared. The men on board the schooner were too drunk to render assistance. Postmaster Frank stevens, Elmer Eticson and Frank Ferris secured grappling irons and found the body, standing straight up in the mid. The four men were arrested and taken to Greenwich Jail to await the result of the Coroner's inquest. Foul play is suspected. Monough made a desperate attack upon the officer while being placed under arrest.

About 1 o'clock yesterday morning a gang of railroad builders with Gleason at their head marched through Laurel Hill. Some of the men carried lanterns, others carried crowbars, pickaxes, shovels and sledge hammers. Arriving at the shell road, Gle announced that he wanted a railroad track built on it, and he wanted it done in a hurry. The men was staked and the work started. Before leaving work finished by the time the people started for church. The lateness of the hour did not prevent the people from learning of the presence of Gleason's men, and they had not been at work long before the men, and they had not been at work long before the residents began to appear. They denounced the work as a steal, and some of them wanted to drive off the workmen. There was a prospect of serious trouble when Highway Commissioner Peter Hart appeared. The ex-Mayor had been sent for and arrived in time to greet Mr. Hart.

no attention was paid to his demand, and he returned to Newtown for reinforcements. He came back about daylight with twenty special officers. The officers were greeted with cheers by the spectators and threat-Gleason said he was responsible, and if any one was to be arrested he was the man. The officers said he was not working on the street.

"Well, I will work on it," answered Gleason, and, picking up a sledge hammer, he drove a spike into When he finished he was arrested and taken to Justice Kellum's home. The Justice got out of bed to hear the charge. Gleason, after being released, marched his little army back to Long Island City. He says he has a franchise to build the track, and feels confident of winning the case.

WATCHING SECRETARY LAMONT.

DEMOCRATIC POLITICIANS FOLLOW HIS MOVE-MENTS HERE CLOSELY.

Secretary Lamont, of the Department of War, spent yesterday in this city. It has been his cus tom to run over to New-York on saturday evenings, No. 238 West seventy-third-st., ever since he became a member of Mr. Cleveland's Cabluet, as Mrs. Lamont and the children have continued to live in this city. They will not go to Washington to live

In spite of Colonel Lamont's denials, Democratic politicians and office-scekers persist in investing his visits to New-York with political significance, and all his movements are closely watched. This is especially so since the Anti-Snappers began to talk about the Colonel as a possibility for Governor, and to speculate upon his ability to defeat Governor Flower in the Democratic state Convention of 1894. in the Presidential contest of 1896. One of the first steps in this direction is to take away from Senator Hill the control of the Democratic State Committee To secure this important advantage over them the snappers say that Mr. Cleveland has promised the use of the Federal patronage in New-York, and that is to be given out under Secretary Lamont's direction in order to increase his importance. They stick to their assertions that this is the plan of campalge, although Colonel Lamont, when asked about the facts yesterday, shook his head sagely and told his inquirers that there was "nothing in it."

The Anti-Snapper chiefs who went to Washingt last week and besieged the Witte House and the Treasury and Postofice departments in search of plunder since their return have continued to whisper in the ears of their under-strappers sugared assurances that all will be well with them soon, and that they would not be surprised if the big appointments here were made this week.

GREAT THRONGS GREET HIM IN HOBOKEN.

FAGAN'S ADDRE'S TO HIM IN FATHER

The natives of Hoboken will never forget that Monsignor Satolli, the Apostolic Delegate, spent yesterday with them. If ever any one visited Hoboken and caused a sensation, he certainly did. Everybody there knew that he was in town. The good people could not help knowing that he had honored their place of abode with a visit. He arrived there on Saturday afternoon and was quietly received by the community at the monastery of the Passionists. By yesterday, however, tery of the Passionists. By yesterday, however, every one who lived near the monastery decorated his house with American flags and bunting. In front of many of the houses hung the yellow and white Fapal flag. That was in West Hoboken. In Hoboken proper there was just as much bunting flung to the creeze because the Church of Our Lady of Grace, Father Corrigan's Church, is there.

As the journey from the monastery to Father Corrigan's church made necessary a trip over all the hills and dales of Hoboken, those on the line also put on a gay and festive dress. Every-line also put on a gay and festive dress. Every body seemed to want to show the representa-tive of the Pope that his visit was a welcome one. Denominational prejudices did not seem to Monsignor Satolli was highly pleased with the reception given to him, and in the several adses that he made he spoke so highly of New-Jersey in general and Hoboken in particular tha one would think there was no place like that town. This, of course, pleased the people of Hobeken. Monsignor Satolli even spoke English to the dwellers in Holoken in order to please

AN EARLY PRIVATE MASS.

At 8 o'clock in the morning the Apostolic Delegate said a private mass in the church connected with the monastery. At 9:30 o'clock mass was said for the benefit of the Italian congregation. Monsignor Satolli delivered a sermon in Italian. The pontifical high mass was sung at 19:30 o'clock. The church was crowded far beyond its capacity. Fully 3,006 people managed to squeeze themselves in. The altars were decorated with flowers and many candles were burning on them. Bishop Wigger was the cele brant and Vicar-General James O'Connor, of the Newark diocese, was the assistant priest. Father Dominick was the deacon of the mass and Father Anthony the sub-deacon. The deacon of honor was the Rev. Dr. Thomas O'Gorman, of the Catholic University at Washington. Chancellor T A. Wallace, of the Newark diocese, was the subdeacon of honor. The Rev. Joseph Omthein was master of ceremonies. The Apostolic Delegate occupied the throne at the left of the altar. Bishop Wigger, when it was not necessary for him to be on the altar, sat opposite him.

Father Blakely, the rector of the monastery, was to preach. He did not preach any sermon but used his time in telling the congregation of the great honor which had been conferred on them by the representative of the Holy Father in visiting them. He also snoke of the mission that brought Monsigner Satelli to this country as a ken, got into the carriage, which was followed by a large procession consisting of several divisglorious one and said that he hoped that every one would pray for its success. Father Blakely also explained how American the Delegate was in his Heas, and how much he wished to see Americans in America. He added that Monsignor Sctolli would say mass at some time between and 9 o'clock this morning at the monastery, and that he would visit the schools between 9 and on to speak in glowing terms of the eminent learn ing, the unexampled statesmanship and the great piety of the Pope and his representative here. In conclusion, he said that nothing could give him greater pleasure or happiness than while, as h was, surrounded by the priests of his diocese as well as priests from other places, to receive the Apostolic Delegate and to propose that all drink to the health of the Sovereign Pontiff and his

MGR. SATOLLI REPLIES TO BISHOP WIGGER. Monsigner Satelli replied at length. He said that he was well pleased with Bishop Wigger's toast in honor of the Holy Father and assured all that he was grateful to the Bishop for his protestations of fealty to the Pope, and spoke in the highest terms of the head of the Newark dincese, saying that he was glad that before so many he had ocular and positive proof of the harmony, unanimity and good-fellowship that existed among the priests of the diocese. He was Francisco on his way to Japan. The doctors have forbidden his going for a year, and Bishop Foster, of Roxbury, Mass., will take his place. sure, too, he said, that all the priests felt unbounded love and had the utmost respect for the Bishop. Then he went on for some minutes explaining in his forcible way the absolute necessity for harmony between the bishop and priests of a diocese. Unless that harmony did exist, he asserted that the Church would lose ground. As for himself, he had no fear that he would not suceeed in his mission.

According to him, his presence here was sim ply a vivid proof of the great love that the Pope felt for the people of the United States In conclusion, he said that he hoped that he would soon have another opportunity to visit the diocese of which Bishop Wigger was the head. When the Delegate had ended his speech he asked Monsignor Doane to propose a health for their host, Father Blakely. Monsignor Doane had nothing but words of praise for the rector of the Monastery, who replied in a few words, expressing gratification at the honor done him.

The health of Bishop Wigger was proposed by Monsignor Seton, who made a long speech. The Bishop in reply again answered that no one was pleased than he to sit at the same table with the Apostolic Delegate, and then thanked all for their good wishes. AN ENGLISH ADDRESS TO CHILDREN

Dinner was hardly over when vespers began at 3:30 o clock. Monsignor Satolli officiated, assisted by Fathers Callan, Augustine and Justin. At the close of the service the Apostolic Delegate made an address to the children of the various societies and sodulities connected with the Monastery on the lessons taught by the life of St. Aloysius, whose statue he was about to bless. This address he made in English. It is as follows: he made in Engassi. It is as follows:

There are unmistakable signs of trouble among the cigarmakers of New-York and adjoining cities. There was a convention of dissatisfied cigarmakers yesterday afternoon and last evening in a hall in East Fifty-fifth-st. There were sixty delegates, representing thirty cigar factories in this city. The men said that their wages had been steadily reduced for a long time and that the state of the same sharp, declayer action. wages had been steadily reduced for a long time and that it was necessary to take some sharp, decisive action to improve their wretched condition. The convention was adjourned until next Sunday, when delegates are expected from all the adjoining cities. At the convention next Sunday the question of a general strike, involving 20,000 cigarmakers in New-York and Brooklyn, will be discussed.
